INTRODUCING JAPAN "Oma Tuna"

Oma Tuna, also known as “black diamonds”, can be caught in Oma, Aomori prefecture, Japan.

The first “TUNA auction” of each year is held in a fish market in Tokyo in January and Oma Tuna has received the highest winning bid 9 times in the last decades. Moreover, this year an Oma Tuna with 278kg hit the all-time record in the auction.

With a big surprise, the winning bid was JPY333,600,000 (about US$3,100,000)!!! This Oma Tuna can be distributed into more than 15,000 Pcs of Sushi. If you convert that amount to sushi, 1 piece of sushi would cost over JPY20,000(about US$200).

Can you imagine who in the world could bid that much for a single tuna? A Japanese sushi company/restaurant, “SUSHIZANMAI”, did it and made sushi out of it and surprisingly sold 1 piece only by JPY400(about US$4) per pc. Of course the rule of “1 piece per person” was applied though.
